

EVO Pizzeria

Cuisine: Pizza

Prices: Moderate ($7-$12)

Dress: Casual

Location: North Charleston.

1075 E. Montague Ave. (843) 225-1796

Serving: Lunch (Tues.-Fri.) and Dinner
(closed Sun. and Mon.)

Devotees of the Charleston Farmers' Market need no introduction to EVO Pizzeria. For years, Ricky Hacker and Matt McIntosh set up their mobile wood-burning oven at the Farmers' Market and sold pizzas inspired by local ingredients. Now, they are firmly entrenched in their North Charleston location. Hacker and McIntosh renovated an old law office into a stylish lunch and dinner spot that brings to mind much larger cities' swank eateries. Even though they may not sell their tasty pie at the market these days, you can rest assured that EVO continues their allegiance to local farmers. Their garden salad features hydroponic lettuce, tomatoes, and cucumbers from Moncks Corner, and they source other veggies from Rita's Roots. On Thursday you can listen to live jazz while you suck down locally-brewed Coast beer that pairs beautifully with their housemade sausage. —Sarah O'Kelley