

The Charleston food scene changes, grows, and ultimately dazzles

Recipe for Success

BY LEE JENKINS

Speaking of pizza — EVO Brick Oven Pizza may rank as the niftiest new thing going in Charleston food. It's a mobile wood-fired oven for hire, a traveling pizza show if you will, dreamed up by former Normandy Farm and FIG protégés Matt McIntosh and Ricky Hacker. Their gourmet artisan flatbread pizzas are delicious, quick, and coming to a farmers' market or café near you. I met these folks at a party and was blown away, not only by their pizza, but by the genius of the idea — I predict a very busy fall for EVO.